

Abstract of the Disclosure

A network system includes a center; a relay station device; and a terminal communicating with the center via the relay station device. The relay station device has a first function for 5 directly communicating with the center and a second function for communicating with the center via another relay station.

FOUO 135555